Nehru, Gandhi and Birth of Israel

- Einstein: “May I tell you of the deep emotion with which I read recently that the Indian Constituent Assembly has abolished untouchability?... I read that the curse of the pariah was about to be lifted from millions of Hindus in the very days when the attention of the world was fixed on the problem of another group of human beings who, like the untouchables, have been the victims of persecution and discrimination for centuries....Long before the emergency of Hitler, I made the cause of Zionism mine because through it I saw a means of correcting a flagrant wrong. I refer to the peculiar disability suffered by the Jewish people by which they were deprived of the opportunity to live on the same basis as other peoples. . . Jews have been persecuted as individuals; the Jewish people has been unable to develop fruitfully as a cultural and ethnic group. . . Zionism offered the means of ending this discrimination. Through the return to the land to which they were bound by close historic ties. . . Jews sought to abolish their pariah status among peoples.”

- Nehru "I know that the Jews have done a wonderful piece of work in Palestine and have raised the standards of the people there, but one question troubles me. After all these remarkable achievements, why have they failed to gain the goodwill of the Arabs? Why do they want to compel the Arabs to submit against their will to certain demands? The way of approach has been one which does not lead to a settlement, but rather to the continuation of the conflict.....The creation of a Jewish national home in Palestine was unacceptable because Palestine was not a wilderness, or an empty uninhabited place. It was already somebody else's home . . . this generous gesture of the British government [the Balfour Declaration] was really at the expense of the people who already lived in Palestine. "

- Gandhi "My sympathies are all with the Jews. But my sympathy does not blind me to the requirements of justice. The cry for a national home for the Jews does not make much appeal to me . . . it is wrong and inhuman to impose the Jews on the Arabs. What is going on in Palestine today cannot be justified by any moral code of conduct. "

- Netanyahu to Modi: “I am a son of a historian. Our people have had thousands of years of history. India and Israel are two of the most ancient civilizations on earth. And yet, it is an amazing fact, that until you visited Israel, no leader of India, in 3,000 years of our own sovereign existence, and our history, has visited Israel.”
